Palestinian Boy:

"We are such good friends. Someday we shall both share beautiful Olive Groves together"

Jewish Boy:

"Yes, I love our friendship, but I'm afraid that someday when I am conscripted into the IDF, I will kill you and your whole family.....And burn your olive trees"

You take my water, burn my olive trees, destroy my house, take my job, steal my land, imprison my father, kill my mother, bombard my country, starve us all, humiliate us all but I am to blame: I shot a rocket back.

Yes, there will always be more than one side to any story. This is the Palestinian side, the side that the Zionists don't want you to know. (on the next slide)

The Origin of the Palestine-Israel Conflict

THIRD EDITION (including Intifada 2000)

s the periodic bloodshed continues in the Middle East, the search for an equitable solution must come to grips with the root cause of the conflict. The conventional wisdom is that, even if both sides are at fault, the Palestinians are irrational "terrorists" who have no point of view worth listening to. Our position, however, is that the Palestinians have a real greivance: their homeland for over a thousand years was taken, without their consent and mostly by force, during the creation of the state of Israel. And all subsequent crimes—on both sides—inevitably follow from this original injustice.

This paper outlines the history of Palestine to show how this process occured and what a moral solution to the region's problems should consist of. If you care about the people of the Middle East, Jewish and Arab, you owe it to yourself to read this account of the other side of the historical record.
